docu-series

Three teenagers with a year off from school. Three round the world tickets to the wildest spots on earth. Three resolutions to save the planet. Three setbacks. A true story.

One September, one girl and two boys, 16, 17, 18, set off on a dream trip to the last great corners of Africa, Latin America and Asia.

Their mission was to join the world of scientists appraising the health of our planet.

Their plan was to report back to their generation.

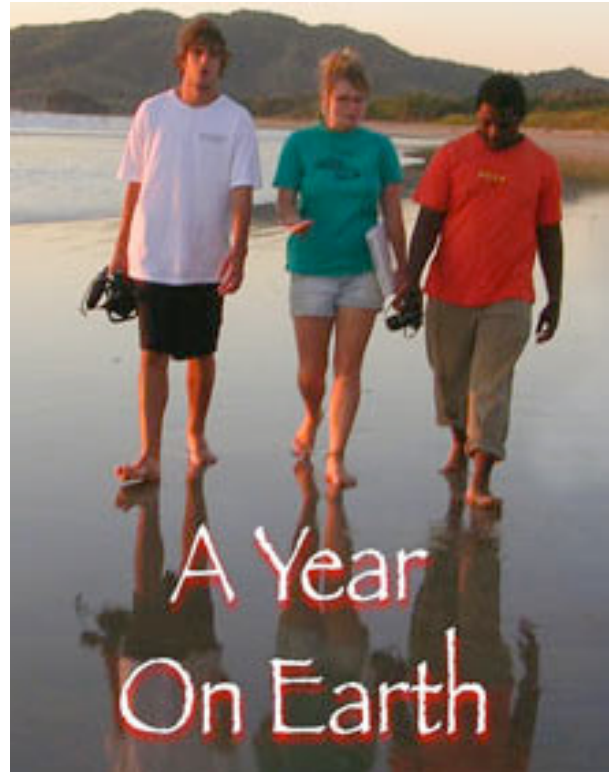

Their hope was to change the world.

Expect a change of plans.

Arsen, Jamie and Tyler will have to catch crocodiles and flamingos. They will get close - very close - to imperiled creatures, like sea turtles, otters and bats. And learn to love hot and stick places like rain forests. In doing so, they will come to understand the many threats to life on earth.

The will also learn to deal with themselves. They're teenagers, after all.

An odyssey, filled with character and drama, earthly beauty and human shame, rocking music and outrageous surprises. A story that shows how minds can change-theirs...and maybe yours.
