

Kids

Disney XD slays Shreducation

14/08/09

Re:Think Entertainment has sold its kids snowboarding reality series Shreducation to a raft of major international broadcasters including Disney XD and Nickelodeon.

The show, which follows a group of 12-16 snowboarders as they travel the world, has been picked up by recently rebranded kids network Disney XD in the US, UK, Scandinavia, Central and Eastern Europe, Latin America and Japan.

Nickelodeon has also acquired the series for Australia and New Zealand.

The show, which was created by Canadian snowboarder Jesse Fulton and produced by Canadian indie Riverbank Films, has been commissioned for three seasons and season two is currently in production for season two. The series will launch in the US on September 14th.

Re:Think Entertainment is exec producing and handling international distribution of the series.