Intimate Affairs

TORONTO: The Canadian factual distributor re:think Entertainment will be unveiling a raft of new programming at MIPTV this year, including the 82-minute HD documentary A Summer In The Cage, which premiered on Sundance Channel in the U.S. last fall. It intimately chronicles a young man's seven-year battle with manic-depressive illness. Also making its debut at the market is The Intuitives, a Canadian series broadcast on CLT (Canadian Learning Television) that follows two practicing mediums who offer a variety of spiritual services. "It touches on the new paranormal mysticism that is popular with a lot of networks today" observes Paula Hutchinson, the company's director of sales and acquisitions.

Additionally, re:think Entertainment will be showcasing the series Shreducation, which follows a group of young snowboarders and their renegade coach as they travel the world, learn how to turn pro and fight for a spot in the 2010 Olympics.
